BARONESS FOUND GUILTY, SINGS

"Might Have Been Worse." She Says of Verdict of Manslaughter.

Will Seek New Trial, and Declares She Will Yet Be ing over a piece of silk embroidery, the Reception Hospital. Baroness Anisia Louise de Massy sat When she recovere in her cell in the Tombs to-day and seemed almost amused that she had been found guilty of the murder of Gustav Simon, the Broadway merchant, shot to death in his orfice last fall.

In rendering a verdict of manslaughter in the first degree the jury that tried the Baroness made a recommendation for mercy. It is in the province of Judge Blanchard, before whom she was tried, to send her to the penitentiary for twenty years, or he may decide that one day in prison is sufficient pun-

The Baroness seems not to care what punishment is meted out to her. With the verdict of guilty and the prospects of a long term in prison, she was as smiling to-day as she has been all, through the trial.

"It was a compromise verdict," she said, looking up from her embroklery and showing her even white teeth, "and it might have been worse," she added with a smile. Then the Baroness for the first time began to look serious.

"Now, see here," she said, "I am either guilty of murder in the first de gree or I am not guilty at all. I shall get a new trial I am sure. I am hopeful of the result. I don't want to stay in this prison all summer. No one would care to be confined here.

The jury returned its verdict at 11 to o'clock last night, after deliberating eight hours. Many friends of the Baroness and many of the witnesses waited about the corridors, and Dr. Carlton Simon, a son of the murdered man, was in the court-room.

The jurymen were taken to dinner at 6 o'clock, and later Charles Le Barbier, counsel for the Baroness, joined her. At 11 o'clock Justice Blanchard was sent for and forty-two minutes later the verdict was returned. The Baroness was apparently unmoved by the finding. With her gloved hand resting on the table she arose and replied to her name. She gave her age as thirty-five and listened quietly while the fore-

"We find the defendant guilty of manslaughter in the first degree, with recommendation for mercy. "It might have been worse," whis-

"Out," replied the Baroness, and instantly she was all smiles again. Nothing seems serious to this young Frenchwoman.
Justice Blanchard said he would pro-

TIRED AND SICK YET MUST WORK

* Man may work from sun to sun but woman's work is never done." In order to keep the home neat and pretty, the children well dressed and tidy, women overdo and often suffer in silence, drifting along from bad to worse, knowing well that they ought to have help to overcome the pains and aches which daily make life a burden.

It is to these women that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, comes as a blessing. When the spirits are depressed, the head and back Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound keeps the feminine organism in a strong and healthy condition. It cures Inflammation, Ulceration, displacements, and organic troubles. In preparing for child-birth and to carry women safely through the Change of Life it is most efficient.

Mrs. Augustus Lyon, of East Earl, Pa., writes:—Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—"For a long time I suffered from female troubles and had all kinds of aches and pains in the lower part of back and sides, I could not sleep and had no appetite. Since taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and following the advice which you gave me I feel like a new woman and I cannot praise your medicine too highly."
